1. This opinion contains indications relating to the following items:

- ☒ Box No. I Basis of the opinion
- ☐ Box No. II Priority
- ☐ Box No. III Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability
- ☐ Box No. IV Lack of unity of invention
- ☒ Box No. V Reasoned statement under Rule 43bis.1(a)(i) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement
- ☐ Box No. VI Certain documents cited
- ☐ Box No. VII Certain defects in the international application
- ☒ Box No. VIII Certain observations on the international application

2. FURTHER ACTION

If a demand for international preliminary examination is made, this opinion will usually be considered to be a written opinion of the International Preliminary Examining Authority ("IPEA"). However, this does not apply where the applicant chooses an Authority other than this one to be the IPEA and the chosen IPEA has notified the International Bureau under Rule 66.1bis(b) that written opinions of this International Searching Authority will not be so considered.

If this opinion is, as provided above, considered to be a written opinion of the IPEA, the applicant is invited to submit to the IPEA a written reply together, where appropriate, with amendments, before the expiration of three months from the date of mailing of Form PCT/ISA/220 or before the expiration of 22 months from the priority date, whichever expires later.

For further options, see Form PCT/ISA/220.

3. For further details, see notes to Form PCT/ISA/220.

Box No. I Basis of the opinion

1. With regard to the language, this opinion has been established on the basis of the international application in the language in which it was filed, unless otherwise indicated under this item.
☐ This opinion has been established on the basis of a translation from the original language into the following language , which is the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international search (under Rules 12.3 and 23.1(b)).
2. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application and necessary to the claimed invention, this opinion has been established on the basis of:
 - a. type of material:
☐ a sequence listing
☐ table(s) related to the sequence listing
 - b. format of material:
☐ in written format
☐ in computer readable form
 - c. time of filing/furnishing:
☐ contained in the international application as filed.
☐ filed together with the international application in computer readable form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority for the purposes of search.
3. ☐ In addition, in the case that more than one version or copy of a sequence listing and/or table relating thereto has been filed or furnished, the required statements that the information in the subsequent or additional copies is identical to that in the application as filed or does not go beyond the application as filed, as appropriate, were furnished.

Re Item V

Reasoned statement with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability;
citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: US2002031100

D2: US2003142658

D3: US4688213

2. The present application does not meet the criteria of Article 33(1) PCT, because the subject-matter of claims 1-9 does not involve an inventive step in the sense of Article 33(3) PCT.

- 2.1. The document D1 discloses (the references in parentheses applying to this document):

A method of synchronizing message transmissions (paragraphs 1 and 13) between mobile nodes in an ad-hoc network using a medium access protocol (paragraphs 31-32, 66 and 78; the use of a medium access protocol is an implicit feature when an ad-hoc network protocol is being used) wherein a message is sent by a node only when it ascertains that no message is being sent by any other node (paragraph 89), and a node which receives two colliding message, reports this to the sending nodes (paragraph 29 and 123).

The subject-matter of claim 1 therefore differs from this known D1 in that in claim 1 it is stated that the messages are compared with one another with regard to their length and transmission rate.

The feature of comparing the messages/packets transmitted with regard to some of their characteristics as their length and transmission rate is a normal feature in the field of mobile communication networks (see for example, document D2 paragraph 54, 63 and 84 and D3, column 13, lines 47-59 and column 15, lines 59-63). The skilled person would therefore regard it as a normal option to include this feature in the method described in document D1.

Consequently, the subject-matter of claim 1 does not involve an inventive step (Article 33 (3) PCT).

2.2. Dependent claims 2-9 do not contain any features which, in combination with the features of any claim to which they refer, meet the requirements of the PCT in respect of inventive step. The reasons being as follows:

claims 2 and 7: see D1, paragraphs 81 and 123.

claims 3-6, 8 : These features are merely straightforward possibilities, known in the field of mobile communication networks, from which the skilled person would select, in accordance with circumstances, without the exercise of inventive skill.

Claim 9: It only adds to the previous method claims, a particular use of the method. This use of the method does not add any technical restriction to claim 9, so claim 9 has the same technical features of the claims on which it depends. Consequently, for the same reason stated in the above paragraphs, claim 7 does not meet the requirements of the PCT.

Re Item VIII

Certain observations on the international application

3. Claim 1 does not meet the requirements of Article 6 PCT in that the matter for which protection is sought is not clearly defined, because the expression "the messages are compared with one another with regard to their length and transmission rate" used in claim 1 is vague and leaves the reader in doubt as to the meaning of the technical features to which it refers (it is not clear how the comparison is made and which messages are compared).

Furthermore, it is not clear which technical effects this method step has and which is its relation with the other steps of claim 1, thereby rendering the definition of the subject-matter of said claim unclear (Article 6 PCT).

Box No. I Basis of the opinion

1. With regard to the language, this opinion has been established on the basis of the international application in the language in which it was filed, unless otherwise indicated under this item.
☐ This opinion has been established on the basis of a translation from the original language into the following language , which is the language of a translation furnished for the purposes of international search (under Rules 12.3 and 23.1(b)).
2. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application and necessary to the claimed invention, this opinion has been established on the basis of:
